Celebrate Yourself - Give Yourself the Gift of Feng Shui

The holiday season is upon us. What gifts are you hoping to give and receive? How would achieving your goals, and renewed positive energy fit in your stocking? The gift of Feng Shui can bring those to you, and more!

Imagine this testimonial from a client: ““Hi Maria!! Oh, my goodness things are definitely starting to flow around here. While I’d like to give my husband credit for his hard work, I can’t help but connect it to the changes we’ve made with Feng Shui. He has more than tripled his annual income in the last few months!!! I am in shock really. We haven’t even finished our changes either. I just want to thank you so much for all of your expertise and input. This is unreal. My husband kept announcing these huge settlements the last few weeks to our family and my 13-year-old son who had been making fun of my hanging crystals said- “ok mom, maybe those crystals do really work!” Can this be your gift?

Feng Shui, the ancient art of achieving your goals through your environment, originated in China over 3,000 years ago with the search for harmony. The Chinese masters, while exploring nature, were trying to locate the safest, most peaceful places to live. They became aware of the nourishing cycle of the elements in nature: Water fed Wood, Wood stoked Fire, Fire burned down to make Earth, Earth became rocks which became Metal, and Metal was used to hold Water. These became known as the Five Feng Shui Elements. They felt that when all five were balanced in an environment, they created a feeling of harmony and natural positive energy. They called this vital, life force energy Ch’i. The purpose of Feng Shui is to create conditions which keep the Ch’i energy flowing all around us freely in our environment. Witnessing how the harmonious balance of the elements worked in nature, the early practitioners began studying how to create the same effect by transferring these practices to their homes.

They created a grid map with eight sectors around a center, that identified the areas in the home that correspond to the most significant areas of their lives: Career; Knowledge and Self-Cultivation; Health, Family, and Friends; Wealth and Prosperity; Fame and Reputation; Love, Marriage, and Relationships; Children and Creativity; Helpful People and Travel; and Centering/Grounding. They called this map the “Bagua,” which literally means “eight trigrams,” with the center for grounding.

The Gift of Feng Shui:

By signing up for a Feng Shui consultation, you can apply what was learned from the ancient teachings to your home or business in a few simple steps.

Two types of consultations to address your personal needs.

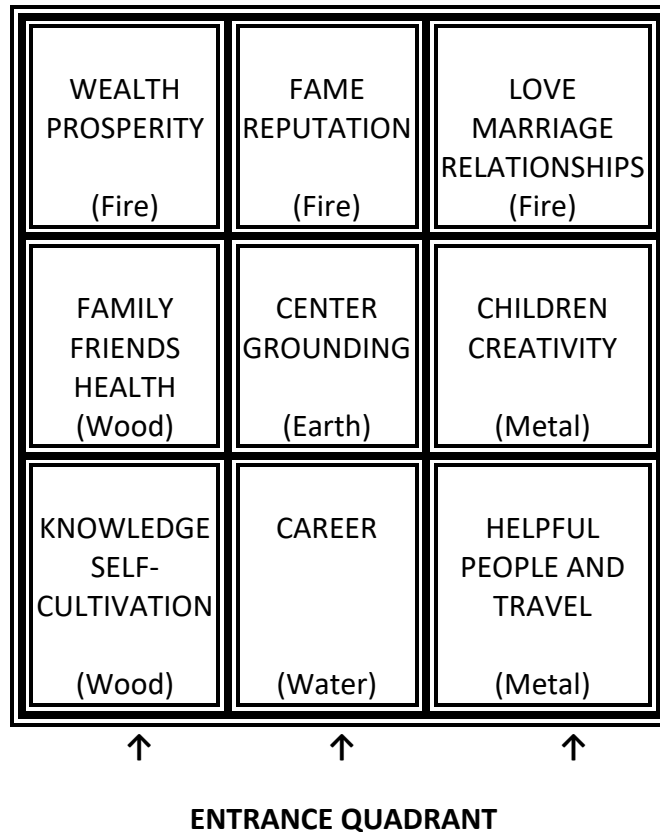

- 1) A Feng Shui consultation in your home lasts about 2 hours. I will talk to you one-on-one about the areas of your life you wish to improve, and the goals you are trying to achieve. During the consultation I will incorporate two very important aspects of Feng Shui: The Bagua Map and the Five Elements. Both are essential in receiving the most positive results.
- 2) A virtual consultation can also be done by phone and computer. You would email me a drawing of the layout of your home and pictures of each room. I would overlay the Bagua map over your home’s layout beginning at your front door, and after setting up a time for a phone consultation, we would virtually walk through your home incorporating the enhancements based on the Bagua Map to help you achieve your goals.

In both cases you would receive a written report, and unlimited follow-up support to your questions.

By the end of the consultation, you will have a clear step-by-step list of ways that you can improve the flow of energy in your home and improve your life. You will be shocked at how quickly simple modifications in your home, and in your mind-set will help you make positive and impactful changes in your life.

Feng Shui at Work:

I recently received this testimonial from a satisfied client.

“Working with Maria has enhanced both my personal and professional life. I have learned so much during her consultation and she has been very present during all my follow-up questions or need for further clarification. I could feel that Maria really cares and is coming from the place of integrity, deeper love and very solid knowledge about the energy flow in the spaces. My physical place feels much more like a cozy and warm home now, like a loving nest that supports me and enhances all my project. I noticed that my relationship with my fiancée turned into even more tender and intimate level. I truly enjoy spending time at my home now and I am looking forward to working with Maria on my office space at work.”

This can be you. Begin now! Doors that appear to be closed can “blow” open. By applying the Feng Shui principles illustrated during your consultation, you will help focus your attention on creating meaningful changes in your life. It works!
